ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞ A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

THE Proprietor of a large Body of land in the West, and in a very healthy region of country, wishing to settle it, would give one or more persons, of respectable character, skilled in farming, and particularly in grazing all kinds of Cattle and Sheep, very advantageous terms to act as agents, and partners in a joint Grazing, and perhaps Milling concern, for which the property is peculiarly adapted, affording a rich and extensive range, a good market, available Water Power, and an abundance of Stone Coal. None but those who can produce undeniable testimonials to their character and qualifications need apply; but it is believed that any person, qualified as above, and making early application, in person, if practicable, at the office of the Pittsburgh Gazette, will have it in his power to enter upon a business of certain and great profit to the enterprising.

POETRY.

TO THE MEMORY OF AN INFANT,

WHOSE MOTHER HAD DIED BEFORE HER.

Home to thy mother, little one!
This world hath strife and care
Too grievous for a thing so soft
And frail as thou to bear;
Come to thy grave!—a happy home
For those who shrink from grief to come.

Lay down thy little head by her's
Who did not live to see
The opening bloom, the smile, the tears,
Of thy sweet infancy.
Home to the grave! a sacred home
For those who shrink from guilt to come.

Tell her what bitter tears were shed
Upon thy cradled face;
Tell her what yearning looks were spent
Her smiles in thine to trace;
Tell her what anguish seemed to come
When she forsook her mortal home.

Tell her what tender cheerfulness
Thy baby cares beguil'd;
Tell her that those she left behind,
Still loved her in her child;
Tell her thou had'st a happy home
Ere summoned to the life to come.

Tell her thy little soul returns
As pure to Heaven and her,
As when athwart the tempest's rage
A dove-like messenger,
From brighter lands it seem'd to come
And call her gentle spirit home.

Come, sweet one!—come—a palmy crown
Shall twine thy sinless brow;
A father's arms have held thee here,
A mother's wait thee now;
A mother's arms!—ah! happy home!
Ah! happy summons! sweet one—come!

Tuesday, October 16.

The Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

MR. BURNSIDE from the committee appointed to draft resolutions and an address, reported the following; from which Mr. Mason of York, and Mr. McDowell, of Bucks, members of the committee, dissented.

Resolved, That to preserve the Constitution of our beloved country and to enable the Anti-Jackson party of Pennsylvania to present an undivided front in the approaching election, this convention resolve to withdraw the Electoral Ticket adopted at their session in May last.

Resolved, That this Convention adopt the electoral ticket formed by the Anti Jackson convention which assembled in Harrisburgh on the anniversary of the birth day of Washington, in February last, and earnestly recommend that ticket to the support of the National Republican party.

ADDRESS.

WE have again assembled in, pursuance of the recommendation of the State Committee, to deliberate on the course to be pursued by the National Republican party at the approaching Election in November next. Great events have transpired since we last assembled.

General Jackson has given to the world a further developement of his principles in his celebrated Veto against the bill re-chartering the Bank of the United States. He has placed himself above the Constitution of his country by declaring that he is only sworn to support it as he understands it. That the opinions of former Presidents have no binding effect on him; nor can Congress, nor the Supreme Court, nor all combined, control his opinion.

The Constitution and the principles of President Jackson cannot both stand—one or the other must give way—both cannot be maintained. They are as opposite as the poles. It will be for the people to determine which shall be supported.

We are not ready to surrender the Constitution of our country, which has been established at the expense of so much blood and treasure. It is a duty which we owe to ourselves, our children, and to humanity itself, to preserve inviolate that sacred instrument, and hand it down unimpaired to posterity. The late Election has shown that the Anti-Jackson party of Pennsylvania have a decided majority of the people on their side. Let it not be said that the Governor's Election disproves this. It does not; for some thousands of those who voted for Governor Wolf, are opposed to the re-election of Andrew Jackson. That opposition is the greater for the negative placed by the Jackson party on the bill of Henry Clay, giving to Pennsylvania the annual sum of $288,176 to release her from the pressure of canal taxation—a taxation which next year must amount to nearly $900,000 to meet the interest of the public debt. Besides, we have a decided majority in the House of Representatives, an increase in the Senate, and half the members of Congress elect. Nor is this all. The boasted majority of 50,000 for General Jackson, in 1828, has been reduced to a little more than 3,000—even allowing (which is not the case) that all are Jackson men who voted for Wolf. What then is our duty? We answer to make every sacrifice of feeling to the public good—to surrender every thing but our honor, to save our country from the present National Administration. It is in our power to prevent the greatest misfortune that could befall this Nation, the re election of Andrew Jackson. This can be insured by withdrawing our ticket, and supporting the other Anti-Jackson ticket that was placed before the people by a convention held in this place, in February last. In making this sacrifice for the safety of the Constitution let us not be understood as abandoning our candidates, HENRY CLAY and JOHN SERGEANT. We do not abandon them. We have every confidence and every reasonable ground to expect they will be elected. But we cannot sacrifice the flattering prospect of defeating General Jackson, even in his supposed strong hold of Pennsylvania, by presenting to our opponents, in this State, a divided front. We have strong hopes, moreover, that the patriotic citizens, whom we now urge for the suffrages of the people, will not cast away the vote of Pennsylvania, but that they will vote for the man, in opposition to Gen. Jackson, who they are satisfied will, with their exertions, have a plurality of the votes of the Union. Let us then rally, as a people determined to preserve our liberties, on the following ticket, viz:

Richard Rush, York county; Wm. Piper, Bedford; Cadwallader Evans, Phila. city; Levis Passmore and Samuel Harvey, Phila. co.; Maxwell Kenedy, Lancaster; Nathan Pennypacker, Chester; Wm. Johnson, Delaware; Nathaniel B. Boileau, Montgomery; David Ferguson, Dauphin; John Walter, Berks; John Eckert, Lehigh; Michael Fackenthall, jr., Bucks; Samuel Leidy, Northampton; Ner Middleswarth, Union; Wm. Wilson, Lycoming; Chester Butler, Luzerne; Wm. McIlvaine, York; Wm. Line, Cumberland; Jacob Hade, Franklin; James Entriken, Huntingdon; Frederick Gebhart, Somerset; Wm. Colvin, Fayette; Thos. M'Keever, Washington; Benjamin Darlington, Allegheny; Wm. Ayres, Butler; John Taylor, Indiana; Robt. Falconer, Warren; Jonathan Row, Westmoreland; Daniel Montgomery, Columbia.

Our Union banner is unfurled; let those who love their country rally around it; and vote the Anti Jackson ticket now presented for their suffrages. Let every Pennsylvanian have it to say, on his return from the Polls, that it was not the glory of Jackson he sought, but his own safety—the protection of his liberties, and the constitution of his beloved country.

On motion, the resolutions and address were agreed to, with one dissenting voice.

Mr. Watts offered the following resolution, which was read, considered, and unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the members of this Convention, and the opponents of Gen. Jackson, throughout the State, to exert their influence to procure county and township meetings to be held, by which the force of all Anti-Jackson parties may be concentrated in support of the ticket now proposed for their support.

On motion, Mr. Krause, of Dauphin; Mr. Randall, of Philadelphia; and Mr. Ewing, of Washington; were appointed a committee of Finance. On motion adjourned.

JOSEPH LAWRENCE, President.

GABRIEL HIESTER, DANIEL W. COXE, Vice Presidents.
Joseph G. Clarkson, John Dick, Secretaries.

Mr. Monroe and Gen. Jackson.—Among the most prominent features in Gen. Jackson's public conduct, is his behavior during the Seminole war. He showed, on that occasion, such utter contempt of all laws, both human and divine, such entire disregard of every principle, which ought to have guided his conduct, that his most devoted admirers have felt that some apology or excuse for his proceedings on that occasion, was absolutely necessary.

Accordingly, the Globe came out with a statement, that General Jackson, during the Seminole war, was, in fact, acting under secret orders from the government. That a Mr. Rhea was commissioned by President Monroe, during that war, to convey secret orders to General Jackson, and that it was by these secret orders, that the conduct of General Jackson was guided.

There are some things very remarkable about this statement in the Globe. In the first place, it was not made until after the news had arrived at Washington that Mr. Rhea was dead. In the second place, Mr. Governeur, son-in-law of Mr. Monroe, and the person on whom might be expected to devolve the duty of defending the character of the late President against false aspersions, is postmaster at New York, and liable to be removed at any moment.

But the precarious tenure of his office has not induced Mr. Governeur to shrink from his duty towards his deceased father-in-law. He has published a series of letters in the New York Courier and Enquirer, in which he completely vindicated the character of the deceased President from the heavy charge which faction had brought against it, and driven the slanderous editors of the Globe to the last refuge of slanderers, a reiteration of their falsehoods, without any additional proof.

It is enough, one would think, that the character, and the interests, and the happiness of the living, should be sacrificed by the idolatrous worshippers of Jackson, at the shrine of selfish ambition. May not the dead rest in peace? Must those on whom the grave has closed—whom death has deprived of the power of self-protection, be dragged again into the arena of factious politics, and be made anew the mark of party calumny!

It is time this ferocious spirit of sacrilege were subdued; it is time that those should cease to rule the nation, and govern public opinion, to whom nothing is sacred, and who will not even pretend to decency.—Boston Daily Atlas.

Coincidences.—The visit of the President of the United States to Tennessee happened just about the time the Legislature of that State was in session. At that time it also happened that a Senator of the United States was to be chosen—and Mr. Eaton, of the fragment Cabinet, happened to wish to supersede Mr. Grundy, the present Senator.—No decision on this subject having been made by the Legislature, it happened that Wm. B. Lewis, Auditor, &c. &c. would arrive in Nashville, soon after the President, on his return to Washington, quitted it, and just on the eve of the day fixed for the election of a Senator.

The fancy happened to strike the President to return to Washington by a circuitous, unusual, and unfrequented route, which led him through a large portion of the State of Kentucky; and it happens also, that the Kentucky elections for members of Congress and Electors are close at hand.

It happens that a great Barbacue, free for all who might attend, was long since arranged to take place on a given day, (26th ult.) at Lexington, and it also happened, that the President arrived in the exact time to be exhibited at the said Barbacue.

It happens that the health and the affairs of Postmaster Barry, who is from Kentucky, call him to that State, at the precise moment when every nerve is straining by the Jackson party to influence the approaching choice of Electors there.

We do not say these coincidences are not accidental—only if half so many accidents had waited upon the visits of Mr. Adams or any of his Secretaries to their homes, we should have heard less charitable interpretations put upon them, than their being accidental.—N. Y. Amer.

N. Brunswick, (N. J.) Saturday morning, Oct. 13.

We are freemen again—the Jackson dynasty has taken a final farewell in New Jersey; they are routed horse, foot, and artillery; completely waterlooed, not an office holder, or Jacksonian to be seen in the streets; their head quarters at the post office is abandoned; rumor says they have retreated to a back room to concoct a statement for the Jackson organs, the Post and Standard; where are now the re-actions in New Jersey!—gone, gone, never to return.

This is the return:—

Virginia.—The Electors named by Legislative Caucus in this State for Andrew Jackson for President, and for such person for Vice President as the vote of the State might indicate, having mostly signified an intention to vote, in every event, if elected, for Martin Van Buren as Vice President—a meeting of the Jackson and Barbour Central Committee of Correspondence was held on the 1st instant at Charlottesville, at which a new ticket of Electors was made out. Hence there will be two tickets of Jackson Electors in Virginia. Will not this stimulate our friends to redoubled exertions for the National Republican ticket?—N. Y. American.

Comparative advantages of heating by Hot Water, Hot Air, and Steam.

From minutes of recent conversations at the Institution of Civil Engineers.

Mr. Turrel said, that where steam was employed, it was requisite that a strong heat should be kept up under the boiler, in order to have a continued flow through the pipes, for as soon as the fire fell low, the steam was condensed, and they, becoming empty, were no longer serviceable for heating. With water, on the contrary, so long as there remained the smallest heat in the boiler, that temperature would be equally distributed over the whole house; the water still continuing to circulate, until it cooled down to the temperature of the atmosphere.

Mr. Simpson said, that the method of heating rooms by warm water, possessed a decided superiority over any other, from the comparative security it afforded against accidents by fire; he had known instances of hot water pipes being introduced into bankers' houses, (where they are extremely fearful of fire,) after they had objected to the use of flues, or pipes conveying heated air or steam.

Mr. Cottam said, that no experiments had been tried hitherto, by which could be ascertained the quantity of fuel necessary to produce a given temperature on the pipe, or in the atmosphere of a room which was heated by its means. He thought it very desirable that a statement of the relative consumption of fuel should be obtained; as, in some observations on the performance of a hot water apparatus attached to a pinery, that consideration was overlooked. He could state one instance of a house that he had fitted up with a set of hot water pipes, by which a saving of one-third was effected in the consumption of fuel; here, however, the flue, which was in use previously, had been of faulty construction: this, therefore, ought not to be considered as decisive. He stated, that no beneficial effect was produced by leading the flue from the fire, along the brick wall; there was no apparent increase of temperature in the house.

Mr. Sibley described a hot water apparatus he had fitted up, which warms several rooms, boils a cistern, and heats a bath on the top of his house; this is managed by a boiler being placed behind the kitchen fire, and which, in fact, forms the back of the kitchen range; from this a common two inch gas pipe is conducted round the rooms to the top of the house, a height of fifty feet, and returned to the boiler. He stated, that although considerable heat must be withdrawn from the fire by this apparatus, and the consumption of fuel probably increased, yet no inconvenience was felt from its operation.

Mr. Turrell observed, that he had been in the practice, for many years, of heating his office with a hot air stove; it was found to create an unpleasant smell, and the atmosphere of the room eventually proved extremely hurtful to the lungs. He adopted a plan of evaporating a portion of water during the whole of the time the stove was in operation, thereby keeping up a proper degree of moisture in the atmospheric air; this removed every injurious effect which was before observable.

Mr. Field said his offices were heated by means of steam pipes, and that it created a most unpleasant smell, accompanied by a feeling of oppression on the lungs. He thought the hot water pipes preferable, on account of the greater uniformity of temperature which was afforded, and always of a very moderate degree: that from steam pipes, on the contrary, was always high, and more difficult to regulate.

Mr. Clegg had been employed to correct the unpleasant smell, created by the air in coming in contact with the red hot surfaces of iron stoves. He adopted a method of covering the stove with a kind of glazed tiles, which was found to be very effective.

Mr. Hawkins had known an instance of a cotton mill, in which it was found impracticable to spin any fine description of thread, on account of the state of the atmosphere, produced by the artificial heat. A scientific man gave as his opinion, that a deficiency of moisture affected the electrical condition of the atmosphere, and was the cause of the difficulty of working the cotton into fine thread. Mr. Hawkins was of opinion that the oppressive feeling spoken of, was more to be attributed to the circumstance of a supply of moisture being necessary for conducting the electricity from the human body than, to the fact of the air being burnt or decomposed.—Athenæum.

KANAWHA ALUM SALT.

There has recently been put in operation, in this county, by Messrs. Donnally, Noyes and Patrick, a manufactory for the production of Alum Salt, which has been attended with entire success, and promises to constitute a new era in the manufacture of salt in this region. Heretofore, the entire quantity of salt manufactured on the river, amounting to about one million bushels per annum, has been made by the agency of fire, supplied by Stone Coal, in furnaces composed of a large pan from twenty to twenty-five feet in length, used to convert the water into brine, and of from twenty to thirty-five kettles, used to reduce the brine and convert it into salt. This mode has been universally in use for several years past, and has proved highly successful in the production of a fine granular salt, of excellent quality, and much esteemed in the Western country.

The principle of the manufactory recently established differs materially from that described, as so also does the article produced differ. The manufactory now in operation consists of a large pan about 35 feet long, set in a furnace, and is closely sided up and covered over so as to prevent the escape of any portion of the steam evolved. Connected with this furnace is a vat made of plank, 135 feet long, and 16 feet wide, underneath and along the bottom of which, is a trunk 16 inches square, of strong plank, which connects with the pan at the furnace and conducts the steam the whole length of the vat. The upper surface of this trunk, or conduit is upon a level with the floor of the vat, and is composed of lead. The pan is used to convert the water into brine, which is then drawn off into vats and settled, when it is again conducted into the large vat where it is evaporated and converted into alum salt of the finest quality. The fire applied in the furnace to the pan rapidly reduces the water into brine, and the steam generated by this process and conducted under the vat as before described, raises the temperature of the brine therein contained, to upwards of a hundred and fifty degrees, and renders the process of chrystilization very rapid.

With these very simple fixtures, the proprietors are now making not less than 200 bushels of salt per day, with a consumption of much less labor and coal, than is required upon an ordinary furnace, which produces a much less quantity. In the process all the foreign matter is effectually excluded, and the salt produced, both in appearance and quality, is not inferior to any in the world.

In he success of this experiment (which we understand has been secured by Patent) a great desideratum has been obtained, which will be attended with the greatest advantages not only to this, but to the entire country west of us.

With the means of production almost unlimited, the salt from this region would have supplied nearly the whole territory on the Mississippi and its tributaries, had not alum salt been deemed indispensible in putting up provision for commercial purposes, distant shipments, and the like. This led to the introduction of Alum salt from the West Indies, which, to the extent used, excluded the domestic salt from market. The alum salt now manufactured here, being in no respect inferior to the imported, and furnished at a lower price, will, ere long, entirely exclude or supersede the use of the foreign articles on all of the western waters.

The gentlemen who have succeeded in establishing this valuable manufactory, and who have the exclusive privilege of erecting others, cannot fail of reaping a rich reward for their perseverance and enterprise.—Kanawha Banner.

Improved method of heating Hot-houses.—We find in the English Gardener's Magazine, the annexed description of an improved method of heating hot houses. The inventor is Mr. A. M. Perkins, a son of Mr. Jacob Perkins, the celebrated 'steam compeller,' who has won so much for the credit of American invention and science in London.

The improvement is a plan for heating hot-houses by the circulation of hot water in hermetically sealed tubes, of small diameter. However favorable this plan may be for heating hot-houses, the advantages, for that class of structures, are as nothing compared to those which it offers for heating dwelling houses, and all kinds of manufactories. Water may be circulated, under ordinary circumstances of attention to the fire, at from 300 deg to 600. It is found that 400 deg. will roast meat. Mr. Perkins is constructing for himself an oven for roasting by water. This will lead to beneficial changes in domestic arrangements. Water at 500 deg., or, at least, water at 330 deg. for the purpose of cookery, and for heating reserve cisterns of cold water, or masses of metal or masonry, for various domestic purposes, including warming rooms, heating baths, laundries, &c., may, at no distant time, be circulated by companies, in the same manner as gas; and, in London, instead of one fire for every room, as at present, there may be only one in a parish, or in every square of an acre in area.

Splendid Flower.—Among the flowering aquatic plants, there is one, that for magnificence and beauty, stands unrivalled and alone. We have seen it on the middle and southern waters, but of the greatest size and splendor on the bayous and lakes of the Arkansas. It has different popular names. The upper Indians call it panoora. It is distinguished by botanists by the name of nymphea nelumbo. It rises from a root resembling the large stump of a cabbage, and from depths in the water from two or three to ten feet. It has an elliptical, smooth, and verdant leaf, some of the largest being of the size of a parasol. These muddy bayous and stagnant waters are often so covered with the leaves, that the sand-piper walks abroad on the surface of them, without dipping her feet in the water. The flowers are enlarged copies of the nymphea odorata, or New England pond lily. They have a cup of the same elegant conformation, and all the brilliant white and yellow of that flower. They want the embrossial fragrance of the pond lily, and resemble, in this respect, as they do in their size, the flowers of the laurel magnolia. On the whole they are the largest and most beautiful flowers that we have seen. They have their homes in dead lakes, in the centre of cypress swamps. Musquitoes swarm above. Obscene fowls and carrion vultures wheel their flights over them. Alligators swim among their

PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 23, 1832.

☞ Returns from the counties, so far as received, show that more than 175,000 votes have been polled, of which Wolf received about 89,000 and Ritner 86,000; that is at the rate of 12-3 majority, out of every 100 voters, or 5 in every 300—truly a lean majority!

THE GEORGIA LOTTERY.—Yesterday the drawing of the Georgia Lottery (for the Cherokee lands) commenced, and will be continued from time to time, until this infamous scheme for corrupting the Georgians and plundering the Cherokees, is completed.

THE POOR HOUSE.—Much excitement was produced against Messrs. Stewart and Kerr, in Robinson, Moon, and Finley townships, by their conduct in favor of a County Poor House. It would, therefore, be a strange thing, if those townships should support Andrew Jackson, and thus contribute to the destruction of the United States' Bank, which would impose upon them a burden fourfold more grievous and oppressive, than would be a County Poor House, if they alone had to defray the whole expense of it. The loss to the farmers, in those townships, in the fall of prices and in rag money, consequent upon the stoppage of the Bank, would be immense.

AARON BURR.—For the last three years, "the vile and speckled reptile" which edits the American Manufacturer, has been in the habit of accusing us of the offence of following Colonel Burr in his expedition down the river, and at the time when it wished to belch forth upon us more and bitterer than ordinary venom, we were called "Saint Burr Craig." Coming, as the charge did, from such a source, we could not descend to notice it, although we knew that other persons, having claims to character and veracity, had also sneaked along the slimy trail of the "reptile," repeating the charge and asserting it to be true, although most of them knew it to be utterly false, and the others had no reason to believe it to be true. We had, heretofore, treated the public calumniator of the Manufacturer, and the equally base whisperers of this charge, with silent contempt, and had determined to persevere in this course.

The reptile, however, having writhed for three long years under the scornful and contemptuous disregard with which we have treated his charges, and not having the fortitude to rest longer in the mortifying position in which we had placed him, has at length changed his ground. He now declares that, "the full developement of Col. Burr's plans, in his posthumous works will, he is inclined to think, operate in favor of the Colonel's reputation."—So long as that editor chose to denounce Col. Burr's expedition, and accuse us of a share in his designs, whether good or bad, we could not persuade ourselves to notice the accusation; but as that scheme, whether of treason or conquest, has been dishonored by the approbation of Mr. Conway, we will no longer remain silent.

We, therefore, republish the following statements, which were published in the Pittsburgh Gazette, in October, 1823.

In the Extra Statesman, published on Saturday last, it is insinuated that I accompanied Aaron Burr in his expedition down the Ohio. The author of Philo Junius has been, on this point, egregiously misinformed.

Burr's expedition commenced in the fall of 1806, and was terminated by the surrender of Mr. Burr to Cowles Meade, on the 17th of January, 1807.—I went to Princeton, in the State of New Jersey, in May, 1805, and remained in that place until May, 1807. This can be substantiated by most of the old citizens of Pittsburgh; but, at present, I will refer only to Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Scull.

NEVILLE B. CRAIG.

September 30, 1823.

Neville B. Craig was at Princeton College during the time of Burr's expedition. I saw him there in April, 1807, and know he had been there for about two years preceding.

HENRY BALDWIN.

I know that Neville B. Craig was at Princeton during the time of Burr's expedition.

JOHN SCULL.

Believing the above to be correct, I left it at the office of the Statesman, for insertion: why it was not inserted, I cannot say.

THE HARRISBURGH CONVENTION.—It will be seen, by the proceedings of the Harrisburgh Convention, that the Clay Electoral Ticket has been withdrawn. For this decisive and patriotic act, the Convention merits all praise.

The question is now fairly put to the people of Pennsylvania—will you approve the imprisonment of the Missionaries, the destruction of the United States' Bank, the prostration of the Supreme Court, the degradation of the Senate, and the disgraceful rule of Messrs. Kendall, Blair, and Lewis? —if so, then vote for the electoral ticket headed Samuel M'Keen.—If you wish a competent executive, equal justice to all, a sound currency, and independent Senate, vote for the Ticket headed Richard Rush.

You have every reason to expect the triumph of Wm. Wirt in Pennsylvania. The majorities given to the Anti-Jackson tickets for Congress, and for the members of the Legislature, prove that Jacksonism was in the minority two weeks ago, and it has been losing ground every day since.

South Carolina.—The nullification party appear to have carried all before them in South Carolina. Even in the city of Charleston, where a different result was anticipated, they have elected their whole ticket, by a majority of 120 or 30. There is no doubt but the election, throughout the state, has gone decidedly on the same side.

On the 9th inst., being the day after the election, Gov. Hamilton issued his proclamation, convoking the Legislature to meet at the seat of government and convene both houses on the 22d inst.—'to deliberate on such matters of high public concernment as shall be then and there presented for their mature consideration.'

Thus it seems the nullifiers were already confident of the success of their party: and this convocation is to take place without loss of time—no doubt with the view of proceeding in the business of nullifying the acts of the legislative body of the Union. The crisis is approaching.—Baltimore Patriot, Oct. 17.

Curiosities.—On the 4th inst., as some young men were hewing timber for a barn, in Granger, Medina county, they found, in a solid white oak tree, a Bone 7 inches long and 1 inch in diameter, imbedded in it, 29 feet from the root of the tree!!

Last week, in digging a ditch through a swamp, near Massillon, two tusks of a Mammoth were discovered, each upwards of 9 feet long, and about 29 inches in circumference. They were broken in getting them out. The enamel on them was perfect, and nearly a quarter of an inch thick. Search is making for further remains of the animal.—Canton (Ohio) Repository

The shrewd and experienced editor of the Washington City Telegraph, in his paper of the 15th instant, has the following calculation:

THE PROSPECT BEFORE US.

The result of the late elections in Pennsylvania, demonstrates, beyond a doubt, that a majority of the voters of that State are opposed to the re-election of Gen. Jackson. It may be well to review the prospect before us. The entire electoral vote is 288, 145 is a majority of the whole. These may be classed as follows:

	Wirt.	Clay.	Jackson.	Doubtful.
Maine	-	-	-	10
N. Hampshire	-	-	-	7

Attached to this calculation is a long editorial article, from which we make the following extract.

"It is completely in the power of Mr. Clay's friends, by uniting in support of Mr. Wirt, to elect him by the people, without a single vote from Maine, N. Hampshire, Kentucky, Louisiana, Missouri, Illinois, or Indiana. Will they do so, or will they assume the responsibility of re-electing Gen. Jackson? This is a question for them to decide; it belongs not to us to advise or to dictate. It is well known that, although we prefer Mr. Wirt to either Clay or Jackson, he is not our choice. Yet, we are by no means certain that is not a strong recommendation: he will come in, if he does come into the Presidency, unpledged. He is committed to none of the ultra parties. He has no warm partisans to put up, nor has he any bitter enemies to put down. He seems to present a rallying point, around which the various elements can unite without a sacrifice of personal feeling, or of any of the great public interests upon which parties have divided. His election will put an end to the reign of Martin Van Buren, Amos Kendall, Wm. B. Lewis, and Company, and, we humbly believe, will greatly contribute to allay that deep party excitement, which so unhappily threatens the very foundation of our institutions.

Will Mr. Clay and his friends unite in the support of Mr. Wirt? This, no doubt, depends upon their opinion of Mr. Clay's chances of success. No one can expect Mr. Clay's friends to relinquish the high prize, so long the object of their solicitude, while he has hopes of obtaining it. But the electoral elections take place early in November; the colleges meet in their respective States on the first Wednesday of December. There is full time for Mr. Clay and his friends to know the fate of the electoral vote before these colleges meet; and if he ascertains that he cannot be elected himself, and that the votes of his friends, if given to Mr. Wirt, will elect him, he cannot hesitate to advise them to do so."

The Election.—The General Election is over, and we are free to admit, that our opponents have triumphed in this county infinitely beyond any thing we could have anticipated. But the causes which have led to this altogether unexpected result, are no longer a mystery. With regard to the gubernatorial question, it must be conceded that a preponderating feeling very generally prevailed in favor of Mr. Wolf, with reference to prospective views, connected with the prosecution of the canal. Numerous National Republican votes were cast to Mr. Wolf on this ground. His friends lost sight of no means in pressing this point.—The subjoined, issued in handbill, forged here or elsewhere, for the occasion was secretly conveyed to every district in the county, and profusely distributed on the morning of the election. It had the desired effect. The trick was but too successful. Many of the districts, which were understood to have been favorable to Mr. Ritner, at once went over to Mr. Wolf.

"Ritner and the Canal.—The Lycoming Gazette, of Wednesday last, contains the following extract of a letter from Joseph Ritner, explanatory of the course he would pursue in relation to the Improvement System, in the event of his election.

Extract of a Letter from a highly respectable Gentleman of Adams County, to his friend in Williamsport, dated

GETTYSBURGH, Sept. 20, 1832.

"Dear Sir.

"Mr.———, a gentleman of high standing, called on me a few days ago, and stated that he had seen a letter from Joseph Ritner, the antimasonic candidate for Governor, to a political friend of his, in answer to one which had been addressed to him, inquiring what course he would pursue in relation to the extensive works of improvement now in progress in the state, if he should be elected Governor. The letter contained the following expression of sentiment upon that subject:

"The ensuing election for Governor has involved the question for Internal Improvement, and whether they should be further progressed in, PARTICULARLY along THE BRANCHES. If I should be elected, I would consider it a fair expression of public sentiment AGAINST any further appropriations to these new works, and would be governed accordingly.

JOSEPH RITNER."

☞We have just received the above extract of a letter, which is now extensively circulating in the anti-canal counties.—Meadville Courier.

☞It is currently reported, and believed, that several personal friends of Governor Wolf, of high respectability, are in possession of the most unequivocal declarations from that gentleman, of his decided opposition to General Jackson and his ruinous measures.

It is hoped that no considerations will induce those gentlemen to withhold the publication of those declarations; and thus show what ground there is for exultation by the supporters of Jacksonism.—Com. in Poulson.

Extract of a letter dated Macon, Oct. 3, 1832.

"Mr. Thomas M. Ellis, proprietor of the Bank of Macon, was shot in the street yesterday morning, and died in about 5 hours after. The quarrel ensued, we understand, in consequence of Mr. Ellis's obstinacy, in refusing to show the Books and Acts of the Bank."

We understand that Ellis was shot by a person of the name of Byrom—that a quarrel had taken place between the parties, and that both had pistols, and fired about the same time, Ellis without effect.—Nat. Gaz.

Commerce of Boston.—There have already arrived at this place, from foreign ports, since the 1st January, a larger number of vessels than have ever before arrived in a whole year. The greatest number which ever entered this port before, in twelve months is 870: there were yesterday on the Custom House Books to this date 874.—Boston Centinel.

Mississippi.—A Convention of the People of the State of Mississippi, by delegates, recently elected, assembled at Jackson, in that State, on the 10th of last month, of which P. Rutullus R. Ray was chosen President, and John H. Mallory, Secretary. We are sorry to see that one of the propositions before it, is to change the Constitution of the said State, so as to make the office of Judge periodically elective.

The occasion of the assembly of so many respectable citizens from different parts of the State was embraced by the opponents of Mr. Van Buren's election to form a "Jackson and Barbour" ticket, which consists of the following gentlemen: Gerard C. Brandon, of Wilkinson, David Dickson, of Hinds, Thomas P. Falconer, of Wayne, and Thomas Land, of Yazoo.

On the 17th, the Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States commences, in the city of New York. The following Rev. gentlemen await consecration to the Episcopal office, viz: the Rev. Mr. M'Ilvaine, of Brooklyn, N. Y., as Bishop of Ohio; the Rev. Mr. Smith, as Bishop of Kentucky; Rev. Mr. Doane, of Boston, as Bishop of New Jersey; the Rev. Mr. Hopkins, of Boston, as Bishop of Vermont.

General Desprez, who held a high rank in the French expedition against Algiers, has published at Paris, a very interesting narrative of the Campaign of 1830 in Africa.—Nat. Gaz.

We give a statement in another column, by which it will be seen that we have received an Anti-Jackson majority of ten votes in the State Legislature. The U. S. Senator will therefore be Anti Jackson. We have also, it is believed, elected a majority of our candidates members of Congress.—Penn. Inquirer.

Vermont against the World!—At the last session of the County Court of Grand Isle County, the first convict was sentenced to the State Prison that ever was sent from that county since its organization—a period of more than forty-five years. We also learn that the person convicted was not a citizen of this State, and had but recently escaped from "durance vile" in the Canadas.—Bnr. Sent.

How a Brave Man Fights Duels.—Admiral Codrington, the hero of Navarino, who is a candidate for Devenport and Stonehouse, last week received a challenge to mortal combat from a man named Woolcombe. He however had no taste for this mode of settling a dispute, and at a dinner given him a few days afterwards, alluded to the affair as follows:—"It might perhaps be thought that he was fond of fighting; but there was no man who liked it less; and he never in his life took his ship's company into action, without feeling a heavy responsibility as to the necessity of taking their lives. He thought the Town Hall the proper place for settling a dispute like that between Mr. Woolcombe and himself, and he should be glad to meet him there, and the constituency would then be able to judge who was in the wrong." Our fighting dandies of all descriptions may take a lesson from the conduct of Admiral Codrington.—There are few men who possess that species of moral courage which dictated this avowal on the part of Sir Edward.—London paper, of Sept. 10th.

A late number of the Glasgow (Scottish) Times has the following paragraph in relation to this year's harvests in Great Britain and on the Continent:

All the accounts from England represent the harvests there as most abundant. Those from several of our own counties are equally satisfactory. In Midlothian, Dumfriesshire, and Galloway, reaping has been going on during the last fortnight, and generally speaking, the crops are described as rich and luxuriant beyond what has been witnessed for many years. The north country crops promise equally well in proportion to the quality of the soil, and there also, the harvest is, this year, earlier than usual. Our Irish Agricultural Reports speak in terms no less favorable of the harvests in that country. So do those of the Continent in general; but the abundance which marks the French crops, is said to exceed any thing that has been witnessed within the last thirty years. It is even asserted that, both in bulk and quality, the produce will exceed the united returns of 1830 and 1831. Thus, if the nations have been lately scourged with pestilence, a benignant Providence hath granted a countervailing blessing in the abundance of the earth's productions; and, though the past has been long overcast with the shadows of death, there is yet reason for hope and future consolation in the immediate prospect of a teaming and plentiful year.

The Bank of France has just issued new notes of 1,000 francs. The size, the form, the arrangement, the vignette border, the stamp, and the water marks are precisely the same as the old notes, but, from some peculiar preparation of the paper and the ink, the impression appears through the note with the same distinctness as on the face, tho' the letters and figures are reversed. On holding the back of the note to a looking glass, it presents a perfect fac-simile of the impression, except that the signature of the cashier, or registering clerk, does not appear.

According to the official gazette of Lisbon, the authorities of all the towns and districts of the kingdom of Portugal, except Oporto, had announced that "the public tranquillity had not been disturbed for a moment within their jurisdictions, and that the inhabitants continued to manifest the utmost enthusiasm for the cause of his Majesty, Don Miguel, and the independence of the country."—Nat. Gaz.

A letter of the 28th August from Algiers, after mentioning the retirement of the Arabs, without making an attack, which we have already announced from the Moniteur Algerien, says:—"The retreat of the Bedouins is attributed to discord among themselves, and to their having been informed that in case of defeat the Arabs in the neighborhood of Algiers would fall upon them. These barbarians now begin to perceive that they have more to gain by trading with the French than by attacking them. The troops have resumed their usual positions, and the National Guards have returned to their customary occupations. At Bona every thing was tranquil on the 25th. An attack upon the town was expected about the 20th, but did not take place, as Ibrahim, the commander of the enemy, fell from his horse, and broke his collar-bone, the moment he was marching against the French. The Arabs took this as a warning from heaven, and dispersed."

The correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce mentions several deaths among literary men by Cholera in the city of London. Many connected with the London Press have been fatally attacked. Mr. Godwin, of the Morning Chronicle, a son of the celebrated author of Caleb Williams, and a young man of much promise; Mr. Motherwell, of the Morning Post; Mr. Palmer, of the Globe; Mr. Purcell, of the Spectator; and Mr. Henchell, of the Alfred Mr. David Blakie has also fallen by the epidemic. He was the originator and editor of the Edinburgh Evening Post and the Literary Gazette. Sir Albert Pell, one of the Judges, died on the 9th, and, strange to say, the disease remained upon him for nearly a fortnight.

The election for President, even if it shall terminate favorable to the spoil party, will give clear indication of the decided disapprobation entertained by the people for the administration of Andrew Jackson. In 1828, he was elected against an undivided opposition by an immense vote. But now it is reduced almost to a certainty, that if elected at all he can only be elected by the division of the opposition. His great, overwhelming vote will have shrunk into a lean and bare majority. Whole States will have turned against him, and others if he gets at all he will not by heavy majorities, but by meagre pluralities. The great body of the people will not choose him, but he will be elected by minorities, and because the majority, though opposed, are not united. His election under such circumstances will be a signal admonition that the people resent his abuses of the interests which they confided to him.—N. Haven Adver.

Prospects in Indiana.—The State of Indiana has generally been considered one of the most doubtful of the Western states—but the impression has prevailed, we believe to a very considerable extent, since the late election for members of the Legislature, that her vote would be cast for General Jackson. The information which we have just received from that state, is calculated to produce a very different impression. We have had an opportunity of conversing with an intelligent citizen of that state, who has just travelled through a considerable number of the counties, mingled freely with the people, and received an expression of their opinions.—Our informant states, that in his own county, (Putnam) it was admitted by the Jackson men themselves, that there had been 200 changes since the late election; and taking the opinions of the best informed men in all the counties through which he passed, it was his decided conviction that there had been, on an average, 100 changes in each of the counties in the state, amounting in the whole to between six and seven thousand votes. That, so far from desponding, the Clay party were confident of success, and would present themselves at the polls in November in a solid and irresistible phalanx.

We stated, on the 9th inst., that the Commissioners, appointed by the President, Gen. Scott and Gov. Reynolds, had concluded a treaty with the Winnebagoes, for an exchange of land, and the removal of that portion of the tribe which resided south of the Ouisconsin, and east of the Mississippi. Upon a more careful examination, we find the quantity of land acquired by this treaty, greater than we then estimated. The tract contains about 4,600,000 acres, and is represented to be of excellent soil, well watered, and abounding in inducements for agriculturists to purchase and cultivate.

Since that publication, advices have been received of the formation of another treaty with the Sacs and Foxes on the 21st ult. By this compact, the U. States acquire about 6,000,000 acres, of a quality not inferior to any between the same parallels of latitude. It is known to abound in lead ore, and the Indians say in other ores.

For the tract ceded, the United States agree to pay an annuity of twenty thousand dollars for thirty years, to support a black-smith and gun-smith in addition to those now employed, to pay the debts of the tribes, to supply provisions, and as a reward for the fidelity of Ke-o-kuk and the friendly Band, to allow a reservation to be made for them of 400 miles square on Ioway river, to include Ke-o-kuk's principal village.

Black Hawk and his two sons, the Prophet, Napope and five others, principal warriors of the hostile bands, are to be retained as hostages, during the pleasure of the President. All the other prisoners have been delivered up to the friendly Sacs and Foxes.—Washington Globe, October 15.

The most exciting topic of conversation now is the elections: we are asked almost every hour in the day when the election in this state is held. The following list we believe will be found correct. We recommend our question-asking friends to cut it out of the paper and put it in their pocket-books; then it will be of easy reference at any moment.—Mercantile Advertiser.

PIANO FORTES.

R. & W. NUNNS, Manufacturers of Grand Cabinet and Square Piano Fortes, No. 137 Broadway, New York, respectfully inform the Ladies and Gentlemen of Pittsburgh and the western towns, that they have appointed Messrs. SMITH, PETERS & Co., of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, their Agents for the sale of Piano Fortes of their make.

The extensive sale which the instruments of their manufacture have had, throughout the United States, for twelve years, has made them so well known as to preclude the necessity of their saying any thing with regard to the quality of the instruments bearing their name. They can only add that, for the five years that they exhibited Piano Fortes, at the exhibition of American Manufactures, in New York, they received the first premium, for the best instruments, and that the result of many years' experience in this branch of manufacture, added to the extended scale they are prepared to carry it on, will enable them to offer advantages to purchasers, equal to any other house in the Union.

All Piano Fortes of their make are warranted, with the privilege of returning them within a year, if there is any defect in them.

☞All orders, addressed to Messrs. Smith, Peters & Co., No. 9 Fifth street, Pittsburgh, between Wood and Market streets, will be attended to, at the Manufacturers' prices.

Edgeworth Ladies' Boarding School,
BRADDOCKSFIED, NEAR PITTSBURGH,
Will recommence its engagements on the first Monday of October next.

THE increased and increasing approbation given to this institution cannot fail to produce a corresponding zeal and energy, and a desire to secure a settled good opinion. At this time very many additions have been made, for the convenience, comfort, and well doing of the pupils.—In so large a field as is open for education, understood in its true and extensive sense, there must be room for continual culture. Unabated will be the effort to do the utmost possible to meet so responsible a charge as the care of youth, and to this effort will be added the aid experience brings.—With little observation, in every succeeding month, somewhat is seen to revise and improve.

Edgeworth Seminary has been now of several years standing, and, disclaiming all egotism, it is only the fact to say that experience enables it to offer rather an increase than a diminution of means to give satisfaction.

The health enjoyed by the inmates, and beauty of situation of Braddocksfield Mansion, are well known to visiters, but for information of strangers, it is necessary to state, that in both particulars terms too flattering cannot easily be used.

To instruct, coercive means are not employed—reference is made to the heart as well as the head. Pains are taken to inculcate, that to be [illegible] indispensable to [illegible] know[illegible] to i[illegible] prop[illegible] vient improv[illegible]

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.
